FOREWORD

Lois Warnick

Memento Friends:

When we enter school we could be compared to glowing EMBERS, which when placed in the proper element, or climate, will glow and burst into FLAME. The glow, that the embers already possess, is that which is given by our parents and experiences at home, for it is there that we get the basic foundation upon which to build our further education.

Through our years in school never a day passes without offering new challenges. Some of the glowing EMBERS will meet these challenges, conquer them, and burn on increasing in brightness. Others will flicker and die out. The degree of our success depends upon the character and attitude of the individual. It is up to the individual to use the elements of Service, Scholarship, Leadership and Character, that our parents and teachers place before us, in a way that will add to the brightness of his EMBERS and make of them FLAMES.

Through the picture story furnished by this yearbook, we hope you will be able to see the progress of each student, in school activities, and to what extent he has used the elements of education. May the FLAME from the lamp of learning ever brighten his life.

Sincerely,

Lois E. Warnick

THEME

"The Flame"

THIS IS THE WAY - - The FLAME from the lamp of learning has affected us here at the New Oxford High School, how it has kindled the spark of education, and fanned it into full flame -- and how we have worked in its warm glow and struggled in its flickering shadows.

NATIONAL EDUCATION ASSOCIATION

This is the theme of the National Education Association for its 100th birthday. An organization of teachers, it devotes its energy to guarantee equal educational opportunity for all.

TEACHERS EDUCATE

HERBERT E. BRYAN

The typical teacher is well informed, well read, alert, active in school and community affairs; interested in his pupils, their problems, their future; devoted to their well being and to their nation. A good citizen, the teacher stands as an educated person who has dedicated his life to educate the youth, and thus to move America and its freedom forward. His torch is ever burning and its light is ever guiding.

This young lady, winner of the 1956 Voice of Democracy Contest, is representative of the students of America. Burning with a flaming desire to be educated, she seizes every opportunity to add to her knowledge and skills. She patterns after the examples, strives for the objectives set by and for her. If she be representative, the torch of Freedom is secure.

STUDENTS RECEIVE

Charlotte Orndorff

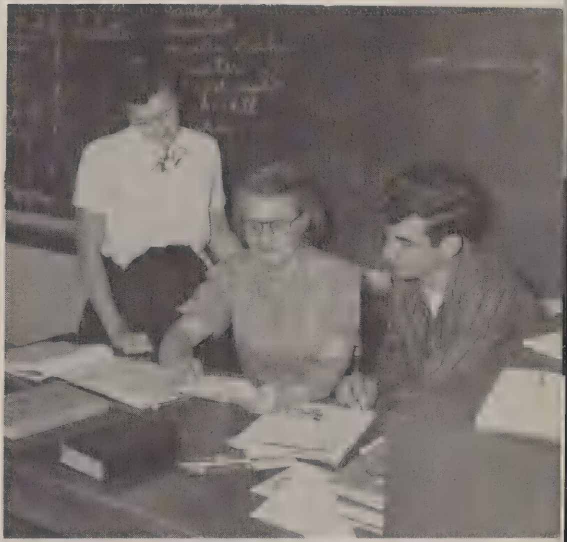
THE THREE R'S

IN our English classes. . . . we learn the fundamentals of forceful expression.

"READING is the basis for our personal progress; therefore, we work to improve our. . . speed, understanding."

Darlene Sponseller

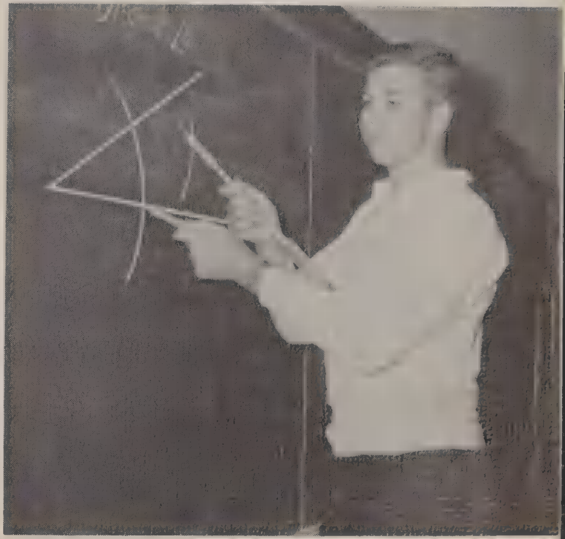
"RITING practice and grammar study teach us to communicate our ideas accurately, clearly and effectively."



Charlotte Orndorff, Mrs. Vesta Cook, and Roy Laughman.

We are drilled constantly in spelling. We stress fundamentals.

"RITHMETIC teaches us to understand the sizes, the orders and numbers of things in the world."



Dave Higinbotham

"WE learn to live in today's world . . . An understanding of geography and its effect on man and civilization helps us to realize the problems of our own and other nations."

"REASONING and discussion develop our minds and provide the foundation for clear thinking in the year ahead."

SCHOOLS ARE THE FLAMES FOR A STRONG AMERICA

Theme for American Education Week, November 11-16, 1956)

We learn to study,

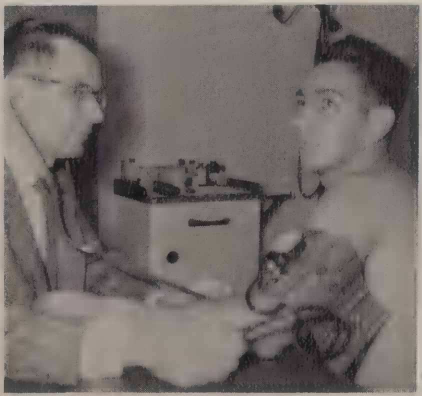
we learn to bake,

and we learn to use
our hands

WE LISTEN TO DEVELOP STRONG KEEN MINDS.
A class attentively listening to a news broadcast.

SCHOOLS BUILD STRONG BODIES AND ALERT MINDS

The cafeteria serves warm nutritious food, thus the school strengthens the body.



Dr. Menges, school doctor, gives pupils periodic health check-ups.

DEDICATION

MR. LEVERE A. BREIGHNER

THIS IS THE WAY we, the Class of '57, with extended hands, show our appreciation to our friend and advisor, whose warm personality has given us encouragement, whose firm discipline has kept our feet from straying, and whose kindness, understanding, and sincerity has stood as a bright light, guiding us through our high school days. His example has been the FLAME on our lamp of learning.

Members of the Class of 1957:

You have a wonderful theme for your 1957 MEMENTO. Our age is an age of fire--fire in the furnaces of industry, in the cylinders of powerful engines, and now the FLAME of roaring jets. But there are quieter fires--the hearth fires of home, the warm glow of friendship, the Flame of devotion to what is right. Yet, equally as powerful is the FLAME that fires the enthusiasm in youth to be educated. It is my hope that you hold this torch of education high and that you may nourish the quieter fires which make your lives happy.

SPORTSMANSHIP

Sportsmanship is fair play - on and off the athletic field. It is winning fairly and losing graciously. Its secret lies in team play and honest competition. Sportsmanship is the reward of the gracious host and the courteous guest. It begins in the home, continues in school and is of lasting benefit in later life. Good sportsmanship begets good citizenship - it is the Golden Rule in action.

SCHOLARSHIP

Scholarship is the power of the mind to dispel ignorance, superstition and fear through the investigation of truth. It knows the PAST, learns from the PRESENT, and makes the FUTURE more than mere chance. It is the preparation for broader service to mankind. It is experience plus - plus hard, tireless, faithful effort.

LEADERSHIP

Leadership is based on personality; it means the advancement of men. A leader must develop qualities which are useful to others. He must gain such knowledge and experiences that will enable him to act wisely in times of stress. Leadership is thinking, planning, acting. Leadership is the seeing and doing what is best for the group.

VOICE OF DEMOCRACY CONTEST WINNERS

The Hanover Area Contest was sponsored by the Pennsylvania Junior Chamber of Commerce. Radio station WHVR, Hanover, taped and broadcast all of the essays entered in the contest. A transcription of the first place winner's essay was entered in the Pennsylvania State Contest.

Betty Hoff

FIRST PLACE WINNER

Excerpts from winning essay

.....We all have wonderful privileges here in the United States that cannot be obtained in the other countries of the world. One, is the Right of Suffrage, the right to vote the way we choose and for whom we choose. This right is too precious a privilege not to be used by all eligible voters. Some American citizens neglect to take advantage of this privilege and yet, it is one of the ways the people have of determining how they shall be governed.

.....We have been striving for peace for so long. In order to acquire this condition, it takes the duty of every citizen to share in keeping peace. We must stay united and work together to show the rest of the world how well we can get along under a democratic government.

.....So let us prove ourselves good American citizens, and dedicate ourselves to our democratic way of life which we freely can enjoy.

Elaine Lucabaugh

THIRD PLACE WINNER

Excerpts from third place essay

.....That nation doesn't know those scores of unknowns who lie beneath the green turf, but the Flag knows its dead! Wasn't it there as they fell in the fields of Saratoga? Wasn't it there with countrymen in the bloody burrows of the fields of Gettysburg? Didn't it fling its Shadow over them in the trenches on Dead Man's Hill? Wasn't it in the thick of the strife at the Bulge as they strained and died? Didn't it weep at Heartbreak Ridge as its men struggled up the rocky slopes? It was there! It was battered and stained but still it rose and gleamed! It gave courage to dying men to fight their final battles. It gave hope to those still living. It caused the able-bodied to press forward. Yes, the Flag knows its dead!!

ANNUAL GRADE SCHOOL MAY DAY

THE MAY POLE DANCERS

This pictorial spread depicts the annual grade school May Day which is presented each year by the pupils in Mrs. Snyder's Fourth Grade home room solely for the entertainment of the grade school pupils and their parents. With this event a tradition is born which culminates in the high school May Day Exercises.
